Flying Broom of the Mistwoods "Mithrynfweg"

This magic staff, modified to double as a flying broom, belongs to a prominent witch of Mitheryn, the misty forest of Sennarin. It is crafted from oak and darkwood, bulging and twisting around itself at the top. Its wielder gains a +2 luck bonus to AC and on saving throws. The staff is also a +3 quarterstaff, and its wielder may use it to smite opponents. If 1 charge is expended (as a free action), the staff deals double damage (x3 on a critical hit) for 1 round.

A Staff of the Mistwoods can be purposefully broken with the phrase "be swift thou guardian in mist / coming for to carry me home" to summon the Jinushigami of Mitheryn (Bestiary 3, p.160), which will then fight at the side of the witch for a limited amount of time. The breaking of the staff supplies the Jinushigami with the power needed to return to its ward forest; the summoning itself, however, is done at the expense of the witch's life force, who eventually falls comatose from overexertion 1d12+10 rounds after, and is carried by the Jinushigami to be nursed back to health in the sacred groves of Mitheryn.

Rods of Hexes: These rods are crafted from gnarled branches covered in sharp thorns. Rod of Abrupt Hexes: 3/d use a lesser hex as a swift action. Rod of Grasping Hexes: 3/d double range of lesser hex. Rod of Interminable Hexes: 3/d double duration of lesser hex (if a successful save reduces normal duration to 1 round, it is unaffected).

Hat of Command (Ex): Laurel leaves crafted from dark leather decorate this wide-brimmed witch's hat. As a swift action, the wearer can speak words of encouragement or advice to herself or an ally within 30 feet. That ally gains a +2 morale bonus on attack rolls, saving throws, skill checks, and ability checks until the start of the wearer's next turn. A creature cannot gain this bonus more than once per day.

Heather's Cauldron (Ex): This fine cooking pot with four stout legs and engravings of cavorting fey around its sides is capable of heating any liquid placed in it to a precise temperature (anywhere from just above room temperature to hot enough to boil salt water) and maintaining it indefinitely while still remaining only slightly warm to the touch on the outside. It provides a +5 competence bonus on Craft (alchemy) skill checks. When filled with liquid, it allows the user to see over virtually any distance or into other planes of existence, as with the spell scrying with true seeing (Will DC 16 negates) multiple times per day, but the DC to resist its power decreases by 1 for each additional use.

Belt of Fallen Heroes: This leather belt has a brass panel depicting an Imtarian sergeant of towering stature fending off against Imtarian hussars. Once per day on command, Heather can summon the spirit of Sgt. Felix Mason to act as a spiritual ally, though unlike the force created by that spell, he is not entirely mindless, and will seek to position himself between her and her aggressors. Whether or not he is active, he attempts to guide Heather to victory via telepathic warning and advice, granting her +1 insight on saving throws.

Thematic Note: Even though Felix Mason's soul has gone on to materialise in a celestial agent of good, the fragment of his spirit that remained to keep watch over Heather enabled her to craft this belt.

----- Alchemical Reagents & Herbs -----

2 coatings \ Alchemical Glue (1 min\1 hr = Str DC 20\25; 1 coating = 1 ft<sup>2</sup>)
2 pots \ Alchemical Grease (material component: grease/sleet storm +1 DC)
2 vials \ Alchemical Solvent (1d4+1 rounds vs. powerful adhesives)
6 castings \ Magnesium (m/c/: transmutation +1 CL for duration)
6 castings \ Myrrh (m/c/: abjuration +1 CL for CL checks and dispels)
3 castings \ Phosphorus (m/c/: teleportation/light +1 CL for range)
3 doses \ Smelling Salts (dying becomes conscious and staggered)
3 dose \ Soothe Syrup (+5 alch. on saves vs. nauseated/sickened for 1 hr)
3 doses \ Troll Styptic (fast healing 2 for 2d4 rounds, Fort DC 15 sickened)
30 doses \ Dreamer's Star (aromatic tea, gain 8 hours of sleep in 6 hours) (1 dose = 6 servings) (Herbalist DC 13 to acquire in forests/plains)
3 doses \ Leechwort (+1 alch. on Heal, +2 staunch bleeding; 1 lb. = 10 uses) (Herbalist DC 15 to acquire in jungles or swamps)
10 doses \ Twilight Dagger powder (m: +1 alch. on CL checks vs. SR) (Herbalist DC 18 to acquire in deserts; Alchemy DC 15 to powder)

----- Hexes -----

Cackle (Su): Heather cackles madly as a move action. Any creature within 30 feet under a charm hex, evil eye hex, fortune hex, or misfortune hex caused by her has the duration of that hex extended by 1 round.

Charm (Su): Heather charms an animal or humanoid within 30 feet with beckoning and soothing words. This improves their attitude by 2 steps, as with Diplomacy (Will negates) and lasts for a number of rounds equal to her Intelligence modifier. — mind-affecting — accursed hex

Evil Eye (Su): Heather causes doubt to creep into the mind of a foe within 30 feet that she can see. It takes a –4 penalty on one of the following (Heather's choice): AC, ability checks, attack rolls, saving throws, or skill checks, for a number of rounds equal to 3 + her Intelligence modifier (a successful Will save reduces them to 1). — mind-affecting

Misfortune (Su): Heather causes a creature within 30 feet to suffer grave misfortune for 3 rounds (Will negates). Anytime it makes an ability check, attack roll, saving throw, or skill check, it must roll twice and take the worse result. A creature can only be targeted once per day.

Iceplant (Su): Heather and her familiar gain a +2 natural armor bonus and the constant effects of endure elements. Heather's skin is slightly stiffer than in most changelings.

Regenerative Sinew (Su): Heather causes the debilitating wounds of a creature she touches to quickly close, helping it heal rapidly. The target either gains fast healing 5 for 10 rounds or it heals up to 4 points of ability score damage from any two ability scores (witch's choice). The target's severed body members, broken bones, and ruined organs grow back, as per regenerate. A creature can only be targeted once per day.

Retribution (Su): Heather places a retributive hex on a creature within 60 feet (Will negates), causing terrible wounds to open across its flesh whenever it deals damage to another creature in melee. It takes half that damage immediately (round down), bypassing any resistances, immunities, or damage reduction it possesses. This effect lasts for a number of rounds equal to Heather's Intelligence modifier.

Death Curse (Su): Heather causes a heart attack in a creature within 30 feet. If it fails a Will save, it becomes fatigued the first round; exhausted on the second; and dies on the third (Fort negates). Creatures that fail the first save but succeed at the second remain exhausted and take 4d6+20 dmg. Slaying Heather ends the effect, but any fatigue or exhaustion remains. — accursed hex

Heather's Treehouse (Sp): Heather can cause her treehouse and the tree it is built on to collapse into a miniature dollhouse on a small bonsai tree over the course of 1 minute; it would be wise to get the interior furnishings out first. She can then extract and the bonsai into a pot or her cauldron, and take it with her as she travels. When she plants it again, along with a local tree seed, it will spring up again as such a tree in the course of 1 minute, reforming the treehouse around it.

— Thematic Note: rework of the Witch's Hut grand hex.

Accursed Hex (feat): When Heather targets a creature with a hex that cannot target the same creature more than once per day, and that creature succeeds at its saving throw against the hex's effect, she can target the creature with the same hex a second time before the end of her next turn. If the second attempt fails, she can make no further attempts to target that creature with the same hex for 1 day.

----- Special Qualities -----

Invoke Patron / Second invocation (Su): Heather can invite spirits associated with Cernunnos into her body and mind as a swift action. This functions like a hunter's animal focus, except she selects two spirits to emulate from the list given. She can use this ability for a number of minutes per day equal to her level; this duration need not be consecutive, but it must be spent in 1-minute increments.

Oops: One unfortunate side effect of Heather's round-the-clock tea inebriation are the occasional clumsy moments and sudden jerks; once each day, the Gamemaster can demand she rerolls a single ability check, attack roll, saving throw, or skill check and use the worse result.

— Thematic Note: rework of Fey Gifts special patron (PZO9485 Blood of the Coven) as Cernunnos is too benevolent and serious to play pranks.

Unruly Hair: Heather's unruly hair grows with alarming speed. If she does not spend 1 hour trimming and grooming it every 48 hours, it snarls in nearby foliage whenever she is outdoors, imposing a -2 penalty to her AC, atk and Stealth checks. — PZO9485 Blood of the Coven p.11

----- Mythic Abilities -----

Hard to Kill (Ex): Whenever Heather is below 0 hit points, she automatically stabilises without needing to attempt a Constitution check. Bleed damage still causes her to lose hit points when below 0 hit points. She doesn't die until her total number of negative hit points is equal to or greater than double her Constitution score.

Wild Arcana (Su): As a standard action, Heather expend one use of mythic power to cast any one spell from her spell lists (with a casting time of 1 standard action or less) without expending a prepared spell. You don't need to have the spell prepared, nor does it need to be on her list of spells stored. When casting a spell in this way, she treats her caster level as 2 levels higher for all purposes.

Shapeshifting Mastery (Ex): Heather's ability to magically adopt other forms is unparalleled, and she can expertly translate her arcane might into brawn. She adds half her tier to the caster level of spells from the polymorph subschool. While under the effects of such a spell, she can use her caster level instead of her base attack bonus when making natural attacks that rely on her new form.

----- Bio -----

Hárpínur was one of the Bjǫglanders' most remote settlements up the Draugrelfr river, suddenly plagued by strange supernatural occurrences near the close of the 46th century. The occultist Skinge Gyddasdottir of the Hyrr clan was dispatched to investigate. Her search ultimately led her to the discovery of a maddening curse that had been awakened there. Skinge and the villagers fled Hárpínur, yet the curse followed, manifesting again years later. Fear of it spreading surged within their new communities, and they were hunted across the Draugrelfr into the land of ghosts.

Skinge was pregnant at the time, and ended up trekking alone through the misty woods, bitter and tormented. It was then that she came upon an ancient menhir covered in moss, when the pains took her. Teetering in the brink of madness, she laid before the standing stone an offering of purple heather flowers, gave birth to a sickly girl, and dedicated it to whatever elven spirits watched over that ancient shrine, with her dying breath.

Her plea was answered by Cernunnos himself. The stag-horned golden emissary crossed the veil into the material world, took the newborn babe in his arms, and saw that it was a sorrow may, a changeling born of a magically gifted woman driven to hatred and haunted by a curse most foul.

It was then that he heard eerie footsteps approach, and turned to regard the Doomsayer herself. She had come for the child as much as he had. He refused to deliver it. Þngærað then revealed that she had foreseen a great destiny for the changeling: she would be the one to research and concoct the Cure. However, that would be a task spanning centuries; a length of time the girl did not have, but that Þngærað as a warden of Time could give her. It was imperative for the salvation of Áthalaar, she declared, and so it fell entirely within her jurisdiction. She beckoned once more for the babe.

Cernunnos refused yet again. They were both striving for the salvation of Áthalaar, yet he had not salvaged the child from one kind of corruption only to condemn it to another. He reminded Þngærað that those were his menhirs, and therefore the child was dedicated to him. If its longevity was imperative, he declared, then it fell to him to find another way to that.

Thus he arranged for the newborn to be taken as far away from Áthalaar as possible, to ensure that the evil spirits that permeated the tormented continent forget about her. Heather was raised in an enchanted fey glade in the highland woods near St. Qurin, watched over by a coven of hags, pixies and other creatures of the primal world. The inhabitants of the glade were tasked with preparing her for the journey to the Fountain of Youth; a mythical locale deep in the Jungles of the Sun God that was said to confer eternal youth, but only if the petitioner was worthy and possessing knowledge of an ancient and obscure rite.

In an attempt to sabotage this endeavour and force Cernunnos to acquiesce to her alternative, Þngærað leaked intelligence about the Fountain of Youth through her agents to certain officers in the Imtarian Army Expedition to Zelgerosh, at the time embroiled in fighting against an insurgency in the wider colony of St. Qurin. One of them, Knight-Captain Merren Carrevert succeeded in capturing 10-year-old Heather amidst the fighting, and interrogated her seeking further leads to the Fountain. He was stopped by petty officer Sgt. Felix Mason, who knocked out most of his teeth and carried Heather back to her glade, giving his life in the process.

When Heather came of age, she undertook the perilous journey to the Fountain of Youth. After many trials and ordeals, she became one of the precious few ever to drink of the stygian waters, yet discovered that things were not so simple; eternal youth came with a neurotic energy that threatened to break her mind and awaken the curse in her blood. She has been thenceforth suppressing her own feral transformation by constant consumption of special herbal tea.

Returning to Áthalaar, she studied under the 65th Lady of the Lake, the samsaran witch guardian of Édhailin, before setting out into the world accompanied by the Lady's daughter, Gwynn ap Lwgh, on the arduous horticultural task of finding the right materials and discovering the correct procedures for the brewing of the Cure. 200 years and thousands of failed experiments later, her quest is not even halfway done, but she travels still.

She is now a high ranking member of the Circle of Cernunnos in Mitheryn, and known to druidic circles as a skilled shapeshifter. She rarely stays in one place for more than one season. She bruises with supernatural ease. A perpetual teenager, in body and mind, and perpetually high on tea.
